His home life had not been particularly happy, and he resolved to go to Alaska as a missionary among the Indians. His wife consent-Time passed and the husband did not return. He had written regularly for some time, but finally his letters wholly ceased and his wife concluded he was dead. Two years ago she was married to Charles K. Ives. In the meantime Chapman had worked among the Indians, prospecting for gold when he had opportunity. Three years ago he joined the rush to the rich new fields of the frozen north and cleared up several thousand dollars. He planned to come to Akron and resume his domestic relations and with his wealth assist in forgetting the past. On his arrival Chapman learned of his wife's second marriage from her own lips.
